

This pressure-sensitive running horse decal logo for your Ford Mustang's windshield looks great (almost as good as the car itself!) It is very easy to apply also:

- (1) Clean the glass (etc.) site where the decal will be applied with soap and a solvent such as rubbing alcohol, then rinse and dry the application area. Also, wash your hands well in case you come into contact with the adhesive side of the decal.
- (2) Now sprinkle the glass with a mixture of 1 cup water and one drop of liquid soap like Dawn, or just pass a sponge [soaked in the mixture] across it so that some water droplets stick to the surface- this step allows you to move the horse in case it must be repositioned.
- (3) First, peel the sleek white layer off the bottom of the Mustang decal (thus the running horse will stick to the semi-clear layer, adhesive side exposed). Next, gently lay the entire running horse decal on the application site (do NOT press it down yet)- if you can, center it on the first try even though you can still carefully move it thanks to STEP 2 😊
- (4) Once centered on the application site- which you can easily verify by viewing the decal from a distance- you may use a dull/flat object, such as a squeegee or credit card (they're not just for autothings) to apply pressure and rub on the entire decal.
- (5) Finally and slowly, peel off the semi-clear layer by pulling it parallel to the application site (meaning don't pull it straight up), leaving behind the decal. You can then use a tiny pin to pierce the decal outline if a small and stubborn bubble proved difficult to rub out. For added security, gently rub the entire running horse decal once over the next day to insure adhesiveness and as difficult as it is with Mustangs, try to avoid getting a carwash for 24 hours since those high-powered jets and brushes are sometimes too strong, lol.

⚠ PRECAUTIONS ⚠

Do not apply this decal in very cold/warm weather. Allow vehicle to cool/warm inside a garage for either vehicle body or window applications. Also, do not apply decal during windy days, because it can easily fold in on itself, which will ruin it (the adhesive cannot be pulled apart).

WE HOPE YOUR MUSTANG LOOKS EVEN SWEETER NOW!
